

Getting Started

1. When you first acquire your cards, begin by familiarizing yourself. Start off by looking at each card one by one, and then give the deck a few good shuffles. This whole process is part of the personal initialization to put your energy into the cards. You're getting to know them as much as they're getting to know you — it works both ways.

2. Read the card meanings and the entire More Information section. It's okay to review these several times in order to allow the directions and meanings to blend and become stored in your memory. Once you're confident, put them aside. I don't want you to be dependent upon the instruction manual.

Now you're ready to use and interpret the cards in your own way. Each card will represent something specific to you, but it could have an entirely different meaning to someone else. You'll soon start to integrate your intuitive mind with the knowledge of the tarot for your own personal interpretation.

3. When you're ready, close your eyes and center yourself. Become grounded by taking a few deep breaths as you clear your mind. Open up your energy centers, and imagine pure white light running through you from the top of your head to the bottom of your feet. Now shuffle the cards to put your own energy into them, or have the person who's about to receive the reading shuffle them.

4. Ask a specific question, or just let the cards tell you what they want to express at this time.

5. Now lay the cards out in any spread you choose. Take your time as you become aware of which cards are in front of you. Notice if there are Major or Minor Arcana cards, different colors, symbols, words, or even numbers. Don't focus too hard on just one card — pay attention to all of them and the order in which they're laid out. Let the cards combine with your intuitive, psychic mind so that it feels quite natural where you're drawn to.

Open yourself to the cards. They're meant to tell a story in their own language, so release your imagination and allow them to speak to you. Trust what you're intuiting, but please, if you don't receive the answer you're hoping for, don't keep drawing cards until you do get the response you want! This is the Law of Divination — you may not get what you want, but you'll get what you actually need.

The purpose of the Psychic Tarot Oracle Deck is to create positive experiences, not to reflect or heighten negative meanings; rather, its aim is to give you guidance so you can gain a look ahead and make the proper changes that will lead to a beneficial outcome for your highest good.
